I hope this letter reaches you well.

I am sorry to have taken a while to reach out, but I fear everything's been getting worse here since you were fired. I wanted to thank you for protecting Vixen Ruiz, even if it resulted in you getting fired afterwards.

Noah and Robert keep blaming it as an 'accident'. With the types of research we conduct here, blaming accidents for injuries or death isn't as uncommon as you'd hope it be. But I don't believe that it was an accident. Vixen refuses to discuss what happened, all that you protected her from a 'mistake'.

However, I believe that I can trust you. I've been recording a list of all the staff here. Multiple staff have been acting strange after taking sick leave. I trust you'll be able to find it.

I don't know what's going on, but I hope you can do more with this than I can.

Take care,
