[REDACTED]

8th May, 2020

Dear Robert Brown,

Apologies for this personal letter. I was considering sending a letter through the proper channels, but I didn't want this recorded or saved anywhere.

I'll be submitting a request to be removed from [REDACTED]. The whole thing makes me feel uncomfortable. I think you know better than most that that's a rare thing to happen to me. Much like its name, that thing feels like it's trying to whisper in my mind. I'm reminded of my biggest fears and insecurities when I'm around it.

Something is wrong with [REDACTED]. It's dangerous. It's like it's sentient, and aware.

I'll submit a proper request to leave research conducted on [REDACTED]. I just wished to contact you privately. I thought you deserved to know. Don't make me regret this.

Sincerely,

Hana Stone
